TONIGHT Yanks and Dodgers will start in where they left off on June 3 when they labored through 11 innings without either club having anything to show for the afternoon's work excepting pretty robust betting performances. That game ended in a 9-9 deadlock.

Thirty-nine hits, including a homer, three triples and a tying run in the bottom of the ninth, were written into the records that day. So, in a double play pending further arrangements, will be the first time in the history of the game that the Yankees and Dodgers are tied in the runner-up spot to Signaller.

"QAD LAW" TO GO
AND so the management committee of the National Hockey League has decided to convene to the meeting today of the Board of Governors that the "tag law" of recorded, just where the team has the right to pass up a regulation game in the first place while has remained a mystery to the fans, including perhaps even the members of the law.

Players were forbidden to talk to newspapers on questions of a "controversial" nature, and the law by the boys didn't get any too sure of their own position or they would never have dreamed up such a Gattopaca piece of legislation in the first place.

No doubt news sleuths usually devised ways and means of circumventing such a law, but the need arose, but it never had place in hockey and it is high time it was rescinded.

Calgary Jockey Hoop Jr. Early Favorite For Saturday's Preakness

BALTIMORE, June 14.—(AP)—The Kentucky Derby king, Hoop Jr., was an established Wednesday night favorite for the 55th running of the historic Preakness Stakes at Pimlico Saturday at probable odds of 3 to 2.

But, what made a big impression hereabouts Tuesday by covering the Preakness distance of 1 1/2 miles in 1:59 1/2, was second choice in the early race at 3 to 1, followed by Mrs. P. W. Widener's Polymath at 4 to 1.

Hoop Jr. announced, meaning that, Albert Sider, of Calgary, would ride Hoop Jr. in the hot race. Sider won $15,875 with his 1944 mount and was top winner of five stakes worth $65,420.

Saturday's Preakness program is expected to draw a crowd of around 50,000 to the old hippodrome to see a field of 10 starters start for glory and a winner's purse of about $60,000—a new mark.

In addition to Hoop Jr., Polymath, and Polymath, registered as C. S. Howard's Sea Swallow, Dr. Mrs. W. G. Lewis' Derby, Jr., and Cavalier, Jr., and the 12th, 13th, and 14th, and 15th, and 16th, and 17th, and 18th, and 19th, and 20th, and 21st, and 22nd, and 23rd, and 24th, and 25th, and 26th, and 27th, NEW YORK, June 14.—(BUP)—A new murderers' row in the major leagues—operating under the skull and bones of the Pittsburgh Pirates—is ready now to wreathe first place in the National circuit from the faltering Giants.

The Steeltown Buccaneers are only a half game behind the leading New Yorkers, and they're swatting along.

You haven't heard much from these menacing Pirates this season because their chief, Frankie Frisch, not only is injured, but he keeps his fingers crossed. He's on the Corsair's masthead.

Frisch, the former Fordham flash, does not go swaggering through the streets, bragging about the prowess of the Pirates—as he did in the days when he led the rowdy Gas House Gang of St. Louis, from 1926 through 1928.

PIRATES FINGERS CROSSED

"Frisch keeps his fingers crossed because during the five previous seasons that he helmed the Pirates, they never managed the National circuit flag. True, they did wind up in second place in '44 but they were 14½ games off the pace set by the champion Cards.

Frisch, despite the illness that kept him absent during the spring training, could begin to pop off now, because he has a line-up of potent—though little known—players who are terrorizing practically every pitcher in the league. The Pirate players may be a band of unknowns—a bunch of boys named Joe, Jim and Bob—but they are going to town, particularly at bat. And when you are a club battling well in these wartime days, it verges on the miraculous—because virtually every one of the other 15 teams in the majors lack punch.

LEAD CLUB BATTING

ACCORDING to the latest averages, the Pirates lead the circuit at the plate with a club-battling mark of .475. They are first in hits with 415, first in runs scored with 232, first in runs batted in with 217, and first in doubles with 77, and in triples with 14.

Despite this prowess with the wand, they are strangely enough last in the league in home runs, with only 12. This is exactly the number that one man on the pace-setting Giants—Catcher Ernie Lombardi—has blasted out himself. But there's a reason for this paucity of four-baggers. The Pirates' home field at Pittsburgh is so spacious that a home run in most other parks would be merely a fly ball at Forbes Field.

The Pirates' have menacing potential power. If you include regulars, utility men and substitutes who fill in frequently in the pinnacles, Frankie has six batsmen with averages that range from .308 to .424. They include Lee Handley, now playing regularly after arriving late and who fashioned the .424 mark. Tommy O'Brien, .345, rookie catcher Bill Skelton, .329, rookie Al Giofriddo, .325, the ex-Yankee, and Sal Maguire, .320, and older Bob Elliott, .281.

THEY HAVE PUNCH

SOME of the other regulars, though only in the upper .250 bracket, make up for their run-off-the-bench averages by carrying on magnificently otherwise. For example, Johnny Barrett—who has only a fair average of .262—is second in the league with runs scored, and in the all-important run-batted-in department, Bob Elliott is second in the league with 78—just two behind the Giants' Lombardi and switching hitting Jim Russell is next with 57.

Alfield, the Pirates would not cause inspired baseball writers to compose sonnets about the poetry of motion, but they have what appears to be adequate pitching. Their mound staff is led by Truett (Rip) Sewell, the "blower ball" expert, who has seven victories. Preacher Roe has five, the same as Max Butcher, Nick Strincevich has four, and they have capable relievers.

Though the Corsairs got off to a slow start, losing seven of their first nine games, they are moving now. And they have that which is so rare on a wartime day in June—punch.

Convict Two Girls On Arson Charges

KANLOOPS, B.C. June 14.—(CPI)—Two girls were convicted in juvenile court here of setting the fire which destroyed St. Ann's academy May 7. Both of the children were pupils at the school. One was sentenced to an indefinite term in the industrial home for girls. The other was placed on a year's probation with her parents. Firemen fought for eight hours to put out the fire in the convent operated by the Sisters of Saint Ann. There has been no official estimate of the damage.

Change of Heart on Part of Man or Woman Causes Big Problems in This Wartime Era; Men and Women Must Decide for Solves

DEAR MISS DIX: My daughter has been engaged to a young man for the past two years and they planned to get married as soon as the war was over. Some after he was sent overseas, he was reported missing and she was so heartbroken over it that she would go nowhere near no one and grieved over it until she made herself ill. Now we have learned that the young man was not killed, but that he is a prisoner of war. She doesn't seem to care any more, won't write to him or do anything to show her sympathy.

We cannot understand her. It seems so heartless and cruel of her when she was so devoted to him. Do you think she could have fallen in love with someone else? Don't you think she is wrong to refuse to write to him and sort of break it to him if she has fallen out of love with him?

Answer: Nobody can understand a girl in love, so there is no use worrying yourself over that. However, the evidence is overwhelming that she has transferred her affections to some other lad. There is no cure for an old love, you know.

What a girl should do when she finds that she has lost her love for her father and has fallen for the charms of another young man is to tell him that she is in love with him and to tell him that she is in love with him and to tell him that she is in love with him.

Answer: Nobody can understand a girl in love, so there is no use worrying yourself over that. However, the evidence is overwhelming that she has transferred her affections to some other lad. There is no cure for an old love, you know.

ROUTES OF INVASION OF INFANTILE PARALYSIS
Nobody knows whether acute anterior poliomyelitis (inflammation of gray matter in the spinal cord) is caused by a germ or a virus, but most pathologists or students of disease now believe it is caused by a filterable virus, that is, a living organism or germ too small to be killed even through the microscope, and so small that it will pass through a fine filter.

It is not known whether the virus, which does not permit disease germs of ordinary size (such as the tubercle bacillus, typhoid bacillus, diphtheria bacillus) to pass through the agency of glass which is used in the laboratory.

The virus is present in the mouth and secretions and the intestinal discharges of the patient. It may be transmitted to other persons by contact with the patient's secretions or by contact with the patient's stool.

It is not known whether the virus is present in the blood of the patient, but it is known that it is present in the spinal fluid.

It is not known whether the virus is present in the urine of the patient, but it is known that it is present in the spinal fluid.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRIDGE
Particular types of problems always come to teachers. One way it will be children who can't sleep, another those who are especially susceptible to colds. Today it happens to be fathers who cannot get along with their children.

The answer to parent-child relationships lies with the parent, not the child. It is he who must be adult enough, understanding and ingenious enough to right the wrongs of the child.

In all of these cases the children are Mama-babes. They refuse the attentions or affection of the father and turn to the mother, who has been in constant attendance upon them since infancy. Obviously the father has to win his way into the affection of a child who has come to disregard him, relative or no, because the relationship has been inadequate to his needs.

Consistently the paternal attitude in these cases is the same. The father has shouted and scolded when the child cried; he has been impatient when the child has been noisy and refused to handle his daughter because she wouldn't notice him when the mother was near.

Even though their treatment of the children may have been such that the fathers could expect reprobation, they behave the children themselves when it comes.

There are simply cases of delayed maturity. Growups don't act that way. They recognize that the situation wouldn't have developed had they treated the child in a pleasant and affectionate way from earliest infancy. Some fathers know only how to bounce children about or to scold them in the air.

They do not cultivate the gentle firm handling for the hundred and one tasks that are to be done for a growing child.

Most fathers are jealous of the baby's preference for his mother, who has given him exclusive attention and so is ready to react meanly toward his child. He needs for the smallest excuse to get mad, for he feels the baby's love.

It is the duty of a father to maintain a close affectionate relationship with his child. He may have to work for this, he may not be successful, but he must not be discouraged. Some fathers return and love and be loved by their fathers. It is the fathers who may not give them a genuine opportunity to do so.

Our leaflet, "The Problem of Relations," may be had by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with this request to Myrtle Meyer, 1401 10th St. N.W., Washington, D.C. 20004.

CHRISTMAS WAS NOT ALWAYS A HOLY DAY

Materially, our Christmas, on December 25, grew out of an old pagan feast day of the Romans for honoring the birth of the sun (Sol), as it was believed to be the shortest day of the year, and the sun began coming longer again. The early Christians selected many such opportunities for turning pagan feasts into Christian days as a means of killing pagan festivals.

Because of the origin of Christmas, many Christians have refused to accept it. In Scotland, Christmas was forbidden by the Presbyterians until only recently, and even in New England it was prohibited in Massachusetts by the General Court in 1659 and not allowed for 22 years. Its pagan associations have now been lost and it is recognized Christian festival.

Police officials said that detective Vincent Desrosiers of the provincial police was taken to hospital after having been shot three times. His condition was reported as serious. Mayor Carignan was slightly injured and received treatment from his own physician.

Italy Crown Prince Advised to Resign

ROME, June 14.—(AP)—Crown Prince Humbert conferred last night with Pietro Nenni, Italian socialist leader, on the formation of a new government and Nenni said later he had advised Humbert to resign and proclaim a republic.

Humbert, lieutenant-general of the realm, was attempting to form a new government following the resignation last night of Premier Ivanoe Bonomi.

Nenni, after leaving the crown prince, said he had advised Humbert to resign in order to avoid civil war by backing to the support of the people. He said his suggestion "did not surprise the resignation last night of Premier Ivanoe Bonomi."

"I told the prince that which I always have said in public," Nenni said, "that we are not alone in the problem of democracy in Italy than the proclamation of a republic."

"Everybody's eavesdropping, so let's give 'em something worth-while listening to. I'll whisper to you a secret of you say 'I like your nerve!' and I come back snappy, 'Well, I like your cheek!' That should be a winner." This exceptional love-ness of that cheek will be preserved for future appreciation, by her regular diet of pure pasteurized E.C.M. Milk—the natural, perfectly balanced food that builds and maintains—health and wellbeing throughout babyhood and maturity—the sure, safe, easy and pleasant way . . . a quart a day!
